DETAILED ACTION

This communication is responsive to the amendment filed February 22, 2005.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-2 and 7-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Pinschmidt et al. ('276).

Pinschmidt et al. discloses a triggering arrangement (Fig. 6) for a friction clutch comprising a housing (16) made of titanium (Col. 6, line 16), at least one triggering element (74), a pickup arrangement (Col. 6, line 8), a plurality of triggering elements (88), a projection (78) and a screw (Col. 6, lines 16-20).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pinschmidt et al. ('276).

Pinschmidt et al. discloses the claimed invention except for the discrete triggering elements. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to separate the ring into multiple parts, since it has been held that constructing a formerly integral structure in various elements involves only routine skill in the art. Nerwin v. Erlichman, 168 USPQ 177, 179.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5, 14 and 16-18 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed February 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding applicant's argument that the claims do not show at least one triggering element connected to the housing by a screw or rivet connection, the examiner respectfully disagrees. Pinschmidt not only teaches that it would have been conventional to attach the elements using screws, but also teaches a triggering element being of separate design from the clutch housing and connected to it by at least the screw connection between the parts of the housing. Since the claims do not recite the specifics of the connection, it is believed that the aforementioned claimed limitation is anticipated by the prior art.

Concerning applicant's arguments regarding claims 5 and 14, the arguments are deemed persuasive.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
